churia; Chih Meng, China Speaks on the Conflict between China and Japan (New York, 1932), an ex parte statement; K. K. Kawakami, Japan Speaks on the Sino-Japanese Conflict (New York, 1932), likewise ex parte and much less careful with its facts than the one by Meng; and K. K. Kawakami, Manchoukuo, Child of Conflict (New York, 1933), also propagandist and pro-Japanese. The report of the so-called Lytton Commission appointed by the League of Nations is singularly fair. It is in League of Nations. Appeal by the Chinese Government. Report of the Commission of Inquiry (Series of League of Nations Publications, VIL Political 1932. VH, 22). The story of the League of Nations' relation to the Sino-Japanese dispute into the spring of 1932 is in FelLx Morley, The Society of Nations (Washington, 1932). The Japanese case is officially presented in two large volumes, The Present Condition of China. Document A (July, 1932) and Relations of Japan with Manchuria and Mongolia. Document B (July, 1932). The Chinese , case is in V. K. Wellington Koo, Memoranda Presented to the Lytton Commission (2 vols., New York, 1932). Some Chinese fiction portraying the resistance to the Japanese is translated in T'ien Chun, Village in August (New York, 1942).

On economic history and conditions, some excellent books are W. H. Mallory, China, Land of Famine (New York, 1927); C. F. Remer, The Foreign Trade of China (Shanghai, 1926), a careful historical survey of China's foreign commerce hi the nineteenth and twentieth centuries; J. L. Buck, Chinese Farm Economy (Shanghai and Chicago, 1930); Julean Arnold, China, A Commercial and Industrial Handbook (Washington, 1926), by the well-known commercial attache of the American legation in China; R. H. Tawney, Land and Labour in China (1932), by a distinguished British expert; T. P. Meng and S. D. Gamble, Prices, Wages and the Standard of Living at Peking, 1900-1924 (Special Supplement to the Chinese Social and Political Science Review, July, 1926). Two excellent books dealing with recent economic conditions, especially in foreign trade, are Edith E. Ware, Business and Politics in the Far East (New Haven, 1932) and Grover Clark, Economic Rivalries in China (New Haven, 1932). An even more inclusive book is J. B. Condliffe, China To-day. Economic (Boston, 1932). See fuller bibliography at end of Chapter XV. See also G. H. Blakeslee, The Foreign Stake in China (Foreign Affairs, Oct. 1931, Vol. 10, pp. 81-91), C. F. Some of the new religious movements in China are described by L. Hodous in The Christian Occupation of China (Shanghai, 1922), pp. 27-31. K, S. Latourette, .4 History of Christian Missions in China (New York, 1929), the standard book on its subject, brings the story
